

[Free and download] Bless Your Heart, Tramp: And Other Southern Endearments

Bless Your Heart, Tramp: And Other Southern Endearments

Celia Rivenbark

*DOC | audiobook | ebooks | Download PDF | ePub

Download

Read Online

#452978 in Books Rivenbark, Celia 2006-05-30 2006-05-30 Original language: English PDF # 1 207.77 x .70 x 5.821, .49 #File Name: 0312343426240 pages | File size: 73.Mb

Celia Rivenbark : Bless Your Heart, Tramp: And Other Southern Endearments before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Bless Your Heart, Tramp: And Other Southern Endearments:

1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Another Belle Chiming InBy Mrs McCAright, sugar, I'm going to just come right out with it and say if you are looking for something that will be an accessory to your charm school book of manners or even just a dictionary of Southern terms, keep looking. This little book of Rivenbark wit is a series of little thoughts, ideas and blog postings that are her trademark work. Miss Celia delivers and stands tall with her ability to put in text those naughty things we were all thinking. Sit back and enjoy a little leisure time with a glass of sweet tea and let her voice bring back memories of sitting around kitchen tables listening to the ladies talk (and gossip) and feel good when you smile at things your mama may have taught you weren't ladylike. Go ahead. I dare you. As for you ladies that are not Southern, please take a peek and know we are all the same at heart. 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Absolutely Fabulous By R. Livingston As a native southerner I get a little scared when other natives write books about us. Well not me ALL of us. But the "us" that make us look bad. I let my friends read it first. Clearly I had nothing to worry about. From start to finish a poignant and accurate depiction written in glorious southern color. I hope my beach free wifi holds out long enough for me to finish the downloads of her other books. 3 of 3 people found the following review helpful. Po' Lamb By Pop Southern language has it own :street talk." Or is it back-road talk. Anyway, you have to be from here to relate in the personal way. Yanks should read this along with COLONEL HORSE PASTURES DICTIONARY OF THE SOUTHERN LANGUAGE. That'll be a vague intro into the real South. The South where manners still rule our personal interactions and eye-contact begets a smile even from total strangers.

From the wickedly hilarious pen of Southern humorist Celia Rivenbark comes a collection of essays that brings to mind Dave Barry (in high heels) or Jeff Foxworthy (in a prom dress). Step into the wacky world of "womanless wedding" fund-raisers, in which Bubbas wear boas. Meet two sisters who fight rural boredom by washing Budweiser cans and cutting them into pieces to make clothing. Learn why the word snow sends any right-thinking Southerner careening to the Food Lion for extra loaves of bread and little else. Humor columnist and slightly crazed belle-by-birth Celia Rivenbark tackles these and other lard-laden subjects in Bless Your Heart, Tramp, a hilarious look at Southern--- and just plain human--- foibles, up-close and personal. So pour yourself a glass of sweet tea and curl up on the pie-azza with Bless Your Heart, Tramp.

"Bright, witty, and warm." ?St. Petersburg Times "Hilarious---and right on the money." ?The Charlotte Observer "Just when you think Erma Bombeck strip-mined the comedy out of motherhood, Rivenbark shows off some sparkling new gems." ?The State (Columbia, SC) From the Back Cover From the wickedly hilarious pen of Southern humorist Celia Rivenbark comes a collection of essays that brings to mind Dave Barry (in high heels) or Jeff Foxworthy (in a prom dress). "Bright, witty, and warm."---St. Petersburg Times "Hilarious---and right on the money."---The Charlotte Observer "Just when you think Erma Bombeck strip-mined the comedy out of motherhood, Rivenbark shows off some sparkling new gems."---The State (Columbia, SC) Step into the wacky world of "womanless wedding" fund-raisers, in which Bubbas wear boas. Meet two sisters who fight rural boredom by washing Budweiser cans and cutting them into pieces to make clothing. Learn why the word snow sends any right-thinking Southerner careening to the Food Lion for extra loaves of bread and little else. Humor columnist and slightly crazed belle-by-birth Celia Rivenbark tackles these and other lard-laden subjects in Bless Your Heart, Tramp, a hilarious look at Southern--- and just plain human--- foibles, up-close and personal. So pour yourself a glass of sweet tea and curl up on the pie-azza with Bless Your Heart, Tramp. About the Author Celia Rivenbark is the author of the award-winning bestsellers Stop Dressing Your Six-Year-Old Like a Skank, Belle Weather, and You Can't Drink All Day If You Don't Start in the Morning. We're Just Like You, Only Prettier won a Southern Independent Booksellers Alliance (SIBA) Book Award for nonfiction and was a finalist for the James Thurber Prize for American Humor. Born and raised in Duplin County, North Carolina, Rivenbark grew up in a small house "with a red barn out back that was populated by a couple of dozen lanky and unvaccinated cats." She started out writing for her hometown paper. She writes a weekly, nationally syndicated humor column for the Myrtle Beach Sun News. She lives in Wilmington, North Carolina.