perception of everyday stuff sometimes undergoes his unique style of analysis. Marc has the ability to cut away the insignificance of a given situation, while pointing to what really is there. I think it is Zen- like. ... the finger pointing to the moon is not the moon. The moon is the moon. Marc has pointed to many very interesting things and kept me thoroughly entertained with this new book. I think he may be a closet Buddhist monk! Buy it! 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Move over, Dave Barry...this guy is funny, quirky good for a belly laugh! By Anson W. Schloat Ruminations on life through the singular lens of a middle-aged foodie, people-watcher collector of peculiar factoids. It's a good, quick read that will stick with you! 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Five Stars By Gina Vastola I love Marc's articles! Just try to read one article without laughing out loud. I dare you!

Since 1995, Marc Wollin has been writing an award winning weekly column looking at everyday life from a different angle. As he approaches his 1000th column, he pulls together reader favorites in this second collection. And yes, it includes more stuff.

Comments from readers of Glancing Askance, the weekly column: "Another tweak of the ordinary to produce the extraordinary! Well done."
