Catherine Pickles : The Quite Very Actual Adventures of Worzel Wooface before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Quite Very Actual Adventures of Worzel Wooface:

1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Very Actual Fun!!By boneLove Worzel on Facebook, was thrilled to get his book(s) for our library. A fun read, Worzel tells a good tale (tail? :)) Written in a journal format, easy to read bits, (very actual hard to put down).Recommend these as read-alouds for kids, and just good fun for older kids through adults.2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. Rescued dog gets family and life begins!By CustomerI enjoyed this book a great deal. It is written as though Worzel (a Lurcher) is speaking. He is quite the character and tells of his life from the time he is rescued and taken in as a foster dog and then adopted by the family who fostered him. The household is full of characters, including the cats who are various and have very divergent personalities. Worzel makes great strides from his start in life and is most charming. I can't wait for the next book to come out. I discovered Worzel on Facebook, and a star was born. If you like dog books this one is vastly entertaining.

This humorous book tells the story of Worzel, an enormous lurcher with "issues" and his newly adopted family - told entirely from the dog's point of view. Adapted from Catherine Pickles highly acclaimed blog, a finalist in the UK Blog Awards 2015, this is a uniquely told story of family life with a rescue animal. When a disastrous turn of events means he has to be rehomed, Worzel's life changes dramatically. Now, as well as dealing with his own issues, he's got to deal with a distinctly imperfect family, and several cats - some of whom aren't that pleased to welcome him into their home ...WANTED: Small, friendly dog. Good with people and other dogs. Able to cope with teenagers and life in a weird family that's given up trying to be perfect. The ability to sail, or a willingness to learn, an advantage. Must like cats.WANTED: Experienced family for anxious, enormous Lurcher. No small children. Needs someone around all the time. Cat-safe.WANTED: Somebody to luff me for wot I are. A famberly that likes walking and doing hinteresting fings but does not hexpect me to be perfect. Or do sit. No small children, sticks, flip-flops or cats. Ok, there can be cats but they'd better be actual quite very nice to me.Kittens, dogs, family, boats, friends (both human and furry), disasters and successes all feature in over 200 pages of stories, letters and diary entries.

contains many touching moments but it also deals with the trials and tribulations of a rescue dog with honesty. Lost and Fond and Winnie's Blog Hubble and Hattie are responsible, as was paleoanthropologist Louis Leakey a century before, in publicizing one of the great achievements of 21st Century scholarship. Worzel Wooface is another perfect observer. As Ethologist Jane Goodall approached her study of Tanzanian Chimpanzees, Worzel Wooface came to the Pickles of Southwold - 'with a mind uncluttered and unbiased by theory.' Geelong Obedience Dog Club a beautifully written, witty, funny, heart warming book which really draws you into the heart of Worzel's adopted family of humans (and cats) ... THIS WAS A BOOK THAT I COULDN'T PUT DOWN! .co.uk Highly recommended for giggles, a great book for a chuckle but with a serious message about the importance of pets becoming family and the effort required to take on such a huge responsibility. Can't wait for book 2 .co.uk Beautifully written, extremely witty and heart-warming throughout ... I literally couldn't put it down! Dog Training Weekly An enjoyable, hilarious read naturallyhappydogs.com About the Author Catherine Pickles is a full-time family carer, writer and blogger. Her blog about Worzel reached the final of the UK Blog Awards in 2015. Worzel Wooface is a Hounds First Sighthound Rescue dog who likes walking, spending time with his family, and chasing crows when given the opportunity. His current hobby is chewing wellies on unmade beds. He lives in Suffolk. Catherine has fostered numerous sighthounds for Hounds First Sighthound rescue. Her hobbies include sailing, walking, gardening and amateur dramatics, most of which she likes to do with Worzel (apart from gardening, but she doesn't have much choice about it, and the amateur dramatics, which he would hate). She, too, lives in Suffolk, with her husband, two nearly grown up children, and five cats.
